

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The fund's objective is to achieve maximum long-term returns with a diversification of risk.

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

The fund invests in equities, fixed-income securities, cash, real estate investment trusts (REITs) and eligible commodity indices. Primarily, the fund invests in countries with the most significant contribution to global GDP. The net equity exposure will typically be 20% to 30% (but never more than 40%) of net asset value (NAV). Listed real estate exposure will typically be 5% to 15% (but never more than 25%) of NAV. The remainder of the fund will typically be invested in fixed-income securities and cash. The fund may use financial derivative instruments (including futures and options) for investment or hedging purposes (but not to gain leverage). The fund has ability to invest in other collective investment schemes and exchange-traded funds (ETFs).

Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying investments to go up or down.

The performance calculated for the portfolio, and the investor performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment date, the date of reinvestment and dividend withholding tax. NAV to NAV figures are used. Calculations are based on a lump sum investment

The Manager has the right to close any Portfolios to new investors to manage them more efficiently in accordance with their mandates. Collective investments are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending.

The fund price is calculated on a net asset value basis, which is the total value of all assets in the portfolio including any income and expense accruals. Trail commission and incentives may be paid and are for the account of the manager. Performance figures quoted are from Bloomberg and are shown net of fees.

FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

The fund was down 2.3% in October. There was very little activity during the month. We trimmed Blackstone going into results, with high expectations and lots of performance fees in the base. Late in the month we added to our S&P 500 futures position with the market having moved a long way in a short space of time.

With risk assets experiencing one of their worst months since the global financial crisis, there were few places to hide. US rates stayed largely stable and government bonds were able to preserve capital over the month, though credit spreads suffered, even in the relatively safer investment-grade space. The fund's currency hedges paid off, with the US dollar stronger against most currencies. With interest rates higher and the mood clearly in risk off, property was a drag, though the majority of the fund's negative performance could be attributed to the equity allocation. The fund's equity allocation was down roughly in line with the MSCI World (-7%), with the bank and health care exposure holding up relatively well, but some big disappointments in shares such as IBM and Blackstone (as well as the Japanese shares).

MARKET COMMENTARY

Markets globally had a rough October with the S&P 500 Index experiencing its worst month in over 7 years (since September 2011, when we were in the midst of a European debt crisis). The month started with an escalation of the tension between Italy and the European Union (EU) over Italy's proposed debt-fuelled budget, driving the spread between Italian and German bond yields to levels last seen during the European debt crisis in 2011/2012. China's A50 Index of large-cap onshore stocks had its worst start to the month since January 2016 as foreigners dumped $1.4bn of onshore shares via the Hong Kong exchange link. International events started to weigh on the US stock market, with the S&P 500 dropping over 5% in the two days leading up to the start of the third-quarter earnings announcements. During the month, over 60% of S&P 500 companies reported 3Q18 earnings, which grew by over 23% in aggregate (more than 6% ahead of expectations).

However, despite this, results did nothing to shake fears that this would be as good as it gets for US corporates. Large-cap US tech companies, which have been dragging markets higher for most of the year, pulled markets down this month as Amazon and Google, reporting earnings on the same day, delivered revenue growth that disappointed and kicked off the second leg down for equity markets late in the month. A two-day rally into month-end was just about enough to haul US markets back into positive territory for the year. However, after the damage done in October it was very difficult to find another market still up YTD. The one exception being the Brazilian stock market which, despite an 11% weakening of the Brazilian real YTD, remains marginally higher in US dollar terms for the year. Jair Bolsonaro won the Brazilian presidential election during the month and markets cheered the prospect of the far-right candidate's proposed reforms.

The picture in the rest of emerging markets was less rosy and the MSCI Emerging Market Index more than doubled its YTD losses in October, leaving it down 16% for the year. Amongst the turmoil, the US dollar kept its haven-status with the Dollar Index another 2% higher during the month. Oil dipped in October with the focus shifting from supply concerns to demand worries. This despite the US releasing 3Q18 economic growth data which comfortably beat expectations (up 3.5% vs expectations of 3.3% growth). GDP was driven by 4% growth in personal consumption (vs expectations of 3.3%) and no sign of growing inflation pressure as the US Federal Reserve (Fed's) preferred gauge of inflation came out in-line with expectations at 2%.
